9. Memorials & Tributes

We were in the very sad position of losing both my in-laws within a very short period and used Donna and her team at Welham Jones Swanley on both occasions. We cannot recommend them highly enough. Donna was compassionate, and kind and made us feel completely at ease when helping us with the arrangements. Her professionalism shone through, and she is the loveliest of people! Her team on the days of the services were outstanding. They guided us through with compassion and understanding during a very difficult and traumatic time. We have no hesitation in recommending them to anyone.” (Anon)

COFFINS & CASKETS

Choose from coffins made from a variety of selected woods, veneers and other materials. All our solid wood coffins and caskets are hand-made to order, constructed with solid wood butt ends and solid wood bases. We take great care to source sustainable products by only using recognised suppliers committed to using products and timbers grown in renewable forests.

WHAT CAN YOU PUT IN A COFFIN?

Local crematorium regulations require the removal of some materials before cremation. This is due to regulations regarding emissions. However, we can place personal items, mementoes like photographs, flowers or other combustible keepsakes in the coffin and return any unpermitted items safely to you before or on the day of or after the funeral.

There are no restrictions on what can go in a coffin for a burial.

WHAT YOU CAN ADD TO THE COFFIN?

- It is a requirement by law to fit nameplates to all coffins.
- Symbolic furniture is available to support a wide range of religions and associations.
- We can supply Scottish cords and tassels, along with the Union flag or other national flags.
- We can provide service (civil and military) and regimental flags.
- We have a medal cushion for your use.

LOOKING AFTER CREMATED REMAINS

Until you decide what to do with the cremated remains, we will look after them for you for up to 6 months. When ready, we will supply a durable plastic or cardboard urn in which to store or transport the remains.

Alternatively we offer a range of caskets, urns keepsakes, memorials and memorabilia giving you many options for what to do with the cremated remains.

This coffin comes finished in a choice of stock images and is fitted with six rope handles and a cotton lining. It is suitable for burial or cremation. Bespoke designs can be accommodated at additional cost.

MEMORIALS AND TRIBUTES

After a funeral or cremation, families have numerous options for remembering their loved ones.

CHOOSING A MEMORIAL

We offer a variety of memorials that can be designed to reflect the life of your loved one.

HELPING YOU DECIDE WHAT TO DO WITH THE CREMATED REMAINS

We can arrange the interment of cremated remains in a cemetery or churchyard and supply memorial tablets or plaques, as appropriate. We also offer crafted urns if you wish to keep the ashes, or we can arrange for them to become keepsakes.

GARDEN OF REMEMBRANCE

The majority of people choose to have the ashes laid to rest in a crematorium garden of remembrance and choose a memorial plaque.

KEEPING THEM AT HOME

If you are unsure what to do with the ashes, you do not have to rush into making a decision but can keep them in an urn or casket safely at home until you have decided. Many families will keep the ashes pending a further family death.

LAYING CREMATED REMAINS TO REST ON LAND

If you want to bury the cremated remains on private land, please get permission from the landowner. If you want to bury the ashes on your land, check your council's zoning permissions.

LAYING CREMATED REMAINS TO REST ON WATER

You need permission to scatter the cremated remains on inland water from the landowner, and must follow The Environment Agency's guidelines. It is advisable to use a biodegradable urn for putting ashes into the sea.

KEEPSAKES

You can choose to have cremated remains created into jewellery and we offer several options.

ALTERNATIVES

We can assist should you decide that your last resting place is to be scattered from a drone, launched in fireworks or indeed placed in space.

TRANSPORTATION OF CREMATED REMAINS

We can arrange for the cremated remains to be sent to another part of the UK if required. To have the cremated remains sent to another country, we will need to complete some legal paperwork at additional cost.

“Following the death of my wife I was originally attracted to Welham Jones as they were local to Sevenoaks and were a long established firm. I was not disappointed as their level of care and professionalism far exceeded my expectations. Vivienne Hogben, their Funeral Arranger who was our primary contact made what would have been a highly stressful time bearable and I thank them for that..”
